RC WONDERLY LINE

November 5, 2013

MCQ Fine Art is pleased to present new “line drawings” by RC Wonderly, opening November 19, 2013.

RC’s unconventional use of raw materials and otherwise non-art medium, such as OSB boards, continues to drive the motivation behind this new and elegant body of work. By focusing on one traditional element of drawing – the Line - as opposed to creating a likeness or representation by use of line, Wonderly explores the physicality of the lines themselves.

Utilizing again a “non-art” medium, this time being “double-sided tape”, which acts as the base or the binder for the powdered graphite, he has created works that defy the two-dimensional plane. The varying textures and strengths of the material affect the line quality that provides a depth of space that is difficult to achieve with such a minimalist approach. Wonderly’s masterful use of both space and material create a body of work that transforms his work to a new level. Much like Richard Serra’s paintstik drawings, scale and presence is achieved through these delicate and masterful works.

RC Wonderly was born in Dallas, Texas in 1982. He graduated from the University of Dayton in 2006 with a Bachelor’s of Fine Art in Studio Practice. Upon graduation he relocated to Las Vegas and has been making and exhibiting work around the valley ever since. His work comes out of a dialogue between process and materials and is informed by his interest in the minimalist aesthetic.

Opening with the Artist: Tuesday November 19, 6-8 pm at MCQ Fine Art located at 620 South 7th Street
